

R.L. Buller & Son Calliope Tokay

Wine Maker: Andrew Buller
Appellation: Rutherglen
Varietal: Tokay
Yields per Acre:
Cases Produced:
Filtration and fining:
Wood treatment:
Length of barrel maturation:

Alcohol %: 18%
Total Acid: 4.9
Free/Total Sulfur:
pH: 3.80
Residual Sugar: 307.5

UPC#: 80250000719

Viticultural Practices: This wine is a stablemate to the Rutherglen Rare Liqueur Muscat but made from a different grape. The variety used is Muscadelle, for which Australia has adopted the synonym 'Tokay'. I am grateful to my father and grandfather who had the foresight to put down blending stocks of the best vintages of past years.

Notes: "Deep brown with an orange rim. On the nose, lashings of toffee, figs, cream and Thai fish sauce. On the palate, the texture was simply sumptuous. Pur velvet. Intense acidity without any trace of astringency. Honey, figs, toffee; superb balanced acidity on the palate. Exceptional length and remarkably clean finish. Nothing sticky about this wine. I'm embarrassed and reluctant to score anything 20/20 but this is the complete expression of the fruit from this old vineyard. It just couldn't be any finer. Hats off! - Stephen Brook, UK Wine Judge.

Review(s): 94 pts Stephen Tanzer's International Wine Cellar Sept, 2011 - Amber with a greenish rim. Plum preserves, dried cherry, orange peel, cola and molasses on the enticingly perfumed nose. Smoky, sweet and velvety, offering a wild array of sweet pit fruit, spice and floral pastille flavors. Shows firm backbone and finishes with outstanding power, depth and length. This wine's blend of exotically sweet fruits and spices is pretty compelling.
